J. H. ANDERSON & CO.

The Old Reliable Jewelry House.

of Hopkinsville is, after all, the best place to get anything in the jewelry line. There's a record behind us, a record of over thirty years; a clean record of satisfied customers, a record of honest dealing, for honest quality, honest prices. It's a record any jeweler might feel proud of. And when we sell an article shod methods, no careless workmanship, no lack of quality, is ever allowed to mar the record of the past. But to improve, if possible, this record, is ever our aim, and goods are sold for as low a price as it is possible to sell reliable goods.

It will pay you in the end to deal with the Old Reliable Jeweler.

BERRY ON TRIAL FOR MURDER.

Arrested as Sequel to Coroner's Verdict Tuesday.

BROTHER PROSECUTES.

His Little Daughter is One of the Chief Witnesses Against Him.

Winfield W. Berry, whose wife died a week ago, was arrested by Coroner Allensworth Saturday, following the verdict of the coroner's jury that the woman's body showed signs of violence. He was charged with striking her in the stomach with an iron pan. When struck she screamed and ran outside the house, where she fell unconscious and was taken in by the neighbors and died without regaining consciousness. Evidence showed that she had given birth to a child only a few days ago. A woman near her home has taken charge of the infant, a girl.

Berry denies his guilt. His six-year-old son is a witness and several neighbors heard the woman's screams.

The case was called yesterday and is now on trial. Mrs. Berry's brother, John Helsley, of Gilbertsville, is here to aid in the prosecution. He has employed John Feland to assist County Attorney Duffy. Judge W. T. Fowler has been appointed to defend Berry, who is without means. Steps have been taken to get his children committed to the Orphans' Home.

DEATH OF MRS. COX.

After an Illness of Six Weeks
Passed Away Saturday Morning.

Mrs. Bettie Boulware Cox, wife of Mr. A. S. Cox, died at 2 o'clock Sunday morning after an illness of six weeks. The cause of her death was flux.

Mrs. Cox was a noble Christian woman, having been a devoted member of the Christian church from early girlhood. Aside from home duties nothing claimed more of her attention than doing good to others, and ministering to the wants of those whom she knew needed her aid in any way. Of a kind and sympathetic nature, she always found time to inquire where she could be of most service, and entered into her work of usefulness with a love that is born of a desire to follow the commands of the Savior. Nothing she possessed was too good for others, and those with whom she mingled in this life were uplifted and made happy by her quiet and unassuming ways. But few women of her age had more friends, and her death is generally mourned.

She was married to Mr. Cox in 1865, and three children was the fruit of their union, two of them dying in infancy. She is survived by her husband and little son, aged two and a half years. Mrs. Cox was the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Boulware. Mr. Boulware has been an invalid for several months. Mrs. Boulware has but recently recovered from a severe illness, but in all the afflictions of the family, faithful friends and the family physician have been unremitting in their attention.

Mrs. Cox's four brothers, Messrs. Logan and Philip, of Paducah; Alec, of Huntsville, Ala., and Benjamin, of St. Louis, came home to attend the funeral services.

Funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. H. D. Smith, and Dr. J. E. Forgarty at the church Sunday afternoon and the remains laid to rest in the Hopkinsville cemetery. The floral tributes were beautiful and numerous.

Tobacco worms are said to be more plentiful than for years and Paris green is in great demand.

DR. MEDER GOES TO LEXINGTON.

Third Assistant Physician at Western Asylum Transferred.

A POPULAR OFFICIAL.

She Leaves Here After Six
Years of Most Successful Experience.

Probably the most prominent lady physician in Kentucky is Dr. Florence Meder, who left the Western Kentucky Asylum this week to accept a transfer to the Eastern Asylum at Lexington. Dr. Meder left Sunday for New York with a party of Louisville friends and will spend a vacation of two or three weeks in New York, Boston and Atlantic City and return in time to enter upon her duties at Lexington.

Dr. Meder is a native of Louisville and received her medical education in one of the colleges of that city. She graduated in 1888 and at once began the practice of medicine. In 1900, after two years of practice, she was appointed third assistant physician at the Western Asylum by Gov. Beckham. But little more than a girl, she entered upon her difficult duties in a way that soon convinced the head of the institution that she was not only a young woman of a high order of intelligence, but a physician alternately able to handle her own case and to assist others. She has been successful in many cases, and has been a great help to the institution. A graduate of the study of the Asylum, she has now thoroughly mastered the science and practice of both schools.

In the six years that Miss Meder has been here, it has been her fortune to serve with four superintendents and as many different assistant physicians, but through all these changes that have occurred from time to time, she has performed her duties so faithfully, so discreetly and with so little concern for the differences of others, that she has retained the good opinion of each succeeding superintendent, and she has made a model and exceptional official.

She is a physician in the true sense of the word. A hard student, a close observer and ready in every emergency, she possesses all the strength of purpose of a man with all the tenderness and gentleness of a woman in her treatment of the unfortunate women she has so lovingly looked after.

Dr. Meder is not only recognized as an able physician, but she is a social favorite and will leave many warm friends among the people of Hopkinsville who will follow her with their best wishes for continued success in her new career. She will be succeeded by Dr. (Mrs.) Minnie C. Dunlap, who will arrive from the Lexington Asylum September 1st.

SPORTS AND ATHLETICS

After having served as coach of the Cornell University crew for a quarter of a century Charles E. Courtney has announced his intention of severing his connection with the institution. Friction with the graduates management, unsatisfactory salary and repeated annoyances to which he has been subjected by the athletic association are among the reasons given for the break, between the "old man" and the authorities. Resident alumni and university officials, protesting against the impending loss of the veteran coach, are bringing all possible influences to bear to induce Courtney to alter his announced determination. His contract still has three years to run, and the friends of the Ithaca school object to his release. Friends of the coach say that he has had numerous offers of increased salary from other institutions, but he has steadfastly rejected them, declaring that his place was with Cornell. John L. Senior, graduate manager, is held directly responsible for Courtney's decision to ask to be relieved of his contract. Frequent arguments over the management of the crew are said to have resulted in settlement unfavorable and unjust to the coach. The governing board of the athletic association is charged with ineptness in connection with the naval appropriations. Formal action on Courtney's request for release cannot be taken until October, when the athletic council, with whom full authority rests, holds its next regular meeting. Cornell's success on the water in the past has been due entirely to Courtney. According to those who know him, Courtney is no angel to get along with. He never minces words. A failure to do one's duty is an unpardonable sin in his eyes. He has taken men out of the boat and crew on mere suspicion of dereliction in duty. His anger is the equal of a Chinese typhoon. But he is always fair.

Jack Moakley is to the athletic field of Cornell what Courtney has been to the rowing branch of the branch of the university. He is an old-timer at track athletics, and not only had a wide reputation as a track athlete himself in New England, but also as a track coach and trainer. He is perhaps the youngest of the old set of track athletes from New England who now are coaching college athletes on the cinder path, and from his work with the Cornell track and cross-country teams he has rightfully earned the title of the foremost trainer of track men in the country. Before going to Cornell, Moakley used to coach school-boys in Boston, the athletes of the Boston Athletic association and of several other athletic clubs. While there he brought out the wonderful quarter-miler, Tommy Burke, whose red shock of hair crossed the line in a quarter-mile one day, when being trained by Moakley, a not so ahead of Miley Lane in 48 seconds flat. The race was a match between the pair, and was run on a dry horse track and in a driving rain, with the mud three inches deep and a strong wind in the runner's face. Moakley's prominent sporting men who saw this race called it the fastest quarter-mile they ever witnessed, for at the finish each man's feet weighed half or five pounds with the mud. The training of Burke was one of Moakley's earliest achievements. Burke also won the quarter hands down in the big international meet in New York on Hecley Oval in 1905. Moakley went to Cornell in 1909, and added to his work on the end that he succeeded in achieving for the first time the double winning of the intercollegiate track meet. Moakley had a harder reputation than perhaps any other coach in the country. He went to a big university where track athletics did not exist even in name, and he had to not only train the bare handful of men who came out voluntarily, but he had also had to hustle about the university to get out enough men to make some sort of a competition for the men he wanted to bring out. There was no interest taken in the sport, and it was a hard situation. Moakley was the all-around athlete. Moakley started in at the bottom of the scale, and with his usual sagacity he took up the branch he would do most keenly at the beginning—that is, distance running. He knew it would take years to develop an all-around team, but he could turn out a high-class squad of distance runners who would attract attention in the long races, where the competition among college athletes seemed at that time to be most keen. It would be possible to attract more attention to the other branches of track work.

The split in the alibi theory forced at Frankfurt has extended to the Executive Committee, which was controlled Saturday by the Hager faction by the close vote of 3 to 4, three members absent and one not voting. Chairman McQuown was on the minority side and resigned from the sub-committee, declaring he would not help to conduct the primary. The three points in the accepted report objected to by Chairman McQuown were the selection of officers by county chairmen instead of the State Committee, the county lists to be made up from lists submitted by the candidates; canvassing
the returns by county committees
instead of by the state committee;
the lower assessment of $32,000 instead of $40,000, as estimated by the Chairman. The Committee refused to accept Judge McQuown's resignation. The amount of the assessment for each office was fixed as follows:

Senator, $5,000; Governor, $4,500; Lieutenant Governor, $1,000; Attorney General, $3,200; Auditor, $4,000;
Secretary of State, $3,000; Treasurer,
$3,000; Supt. Public Instruction,
$2,000; Clerk Court of Appeals,
$2,000; Commissioner of Agriculture,
$2,000. The winners are to pay any deficit arising. Nominations are to be closed Sept. 20, and deposits must be made by Oct. 1. Lists of officers must be furnished thirty-five days before the election and the county lists must be approved by the subcommittee of the State Committee
thirty days before Nov. 6.

A TRUE LOVE AFFAIR

STORY OF COURTSHIP OF DR. VON
BOHLEN AND HIS WIFE
How the Young German Diplomat
Outdistanced All Other Suitors
for the Hand of the Rich Maker of Big Guns.

Could he have the way as he does sometimes even with those who possess millions and are supposed to be eminently successful in order that he might marry the girl of his choice?
The lucky man is Dr. C. von Bohlen, who will probably now leave the diplomatic service in which he has proved
eminently successful, in order that he may share with his future wife the cares and responsibilities of the management of the great gun works which his Krupp's father left entirely to her.

Gustav von Bohlen and Halbach
could never by any possibility be con-

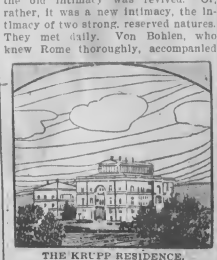

DR. GUSTAV VON BOHLEN AND HALBACH.

sidered a fortune-teller. He is a most interesting man in a way, and has had a most interesting career. His 36 years at lightly on him. Bertha is only 21, but there is no disparity, as Gustav is young for his years, and Bertha's head sits heavily on her young shoulders. Great responsibilities and a great sorrow have sobered and toned her to maturity, just as every manly exercise and a free and stainless manhood have kept Gustav young. Von Bohlen's father was the Baden minister at The Hague, a strict and disciplined German official of the old school. His idea about Gustav was that he should first get as fine
an education as Europe could bestow.

From his early adolescence he knew Bertha Krupp. They used to meet at Essen, at The Hague and at Carlsruhe. Their parents were old friends and had much in common—e. g., their love of art and Italian travel. Bertha used to regard him as a big brother, and he was in the habit of interesting her in books and in endeavoring to make her schoolroom tasks lighter.
They saw little of each other after Von Bohlen took to diplomacy, and it was not until his return from China in 1903 that he discovered what an interesting girl the little Bertha whom he knew in past years had become.

Gustav von Bohlen went to Rome
as secretary of legation at the Vatican. He might have had a higher post, as the Kaiser liked him, and thanked him for his services in China, but he preferred the Roman post, as it would enable him to pursue his studies of Renaissance art. It was at a dinner given by the Imperial German ambassador, to the Quirinal that Bertha Krupp and Gustav von Bohlen met after their prolonged separation, and it was not long before the old intimacy was revived. Or, rather, it was a new intimacy, the intimacy of two strong, reserved natures.
They met daily. Von Bohlen, who knew Rome thoroughly, accompanied her to all the sights of the Eternal City. They drove together to the Corno, sauntered in the Borghese gardens and over the Pincian hill, then plunked to Tivoli. And all the time he poured out the stores of his great antiquarian lore and impressed the northern girl as she had never been touched before. The intimacy thus begun ripened until he must know his fate he traveled from Rome to the Villa Hugel, spoke his few simple words of love and reverence, and was accepted.

Gustav von Bohlen will help Bertha to bear her almost intolerable burden of responsibility. Friedrich Krupp will provide that Bertha's husband is to devote himself to leading the business. Von Bohlen, therefore, will be practically the managing owner of Krupp's works.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble is the most common cause of all lessening action, beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear
when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is a common occurrence for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the kidneys are too often, the urine scales
a fish or it when the child matures it will show itself in some form of disease. It is a sad story with reddened, swollen, at the cause of the difficulty in kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.
Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble,
and both need the same great remedy.
The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle pamphlet, telling all the latest news, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers

cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co.,

Large Men. Stout Men.

Men who think they are hard to fit because they are out of the ordinary—can dress as neatly and becomingly
as the most perfect tailor's model.

Inexpensively? Yes, extremely so.
It's not the price that makes the fit;
it depends entirely on the design and tailoring. Schloss Bros. & Co., of Baltimore and New York, are known the world over as Specialty makers of fine Ready-to-Wear Garments. They have made a study of draping large, stout men and men out of the ordinary proportions.

What we mean by "draping" is not merely "dressing," or "clothing."
We mean fitting them perfectly in garments particularly designed to moderate where nature has been profuse and to fit out where nature has been deficient.

In other words, this Schloss clothing not only clothes the figure, but "drapes" it as well, makes the style of the moment seem to have been especially designed for the wearer.

A trial is all that's necessary to convince you. Come to see us. Try one of these Schloss specialties and you will be surprised to see how well-proportioned and handsomely dressed you can look by simply wearing clothes especially designed by these skillful tailors to fit men of just your build and physique.

Prices are not high! To the contrary, very reasonable, because these celebrated clothes makers cut and tailor these goods in large quantities by the wholesale, and they cost you no more than similar clothes of ordinary size.

We are certain that if you come in and try on one of these suits you will become a permanent patron, and thank us for the suggestion.
Yours truly,

New York Life.

Hopkinsville, Ky., April 30th, 1906.

Mr. Walter F. Garnett, Agent,
New York Life Insurance Co.,
City.

Dear Sir:—

It gives me pleasure to acknowledge receipt of statement of optional settlement on 20-Payment Life Policy, No. 223,593, for $1,500.00, issued at age 35, with premium of $52.50, taken out with you Apr. 29, '96. After having been insured for 20 years, I am offered a paid up policy for $1,500 and a cash dividend of $406.88, or the total value may be withdrawn in cash—$1,215.85, (which is more than I have paid in the 20 years) or a fully paid up policy payable at my death for $2,219.00.

The cash settlement of $1,215.85 is equal to Term Insurance at $12.87 per $1,000 and an investment of the balance of premiums with 6 per cent compound interest for twenty years. This showing is certainly a creditable one for the New York Life, and I will be pleased to give you my application for $1,000 on the Ordinary Life plan.

Yours very truly,

C. E. WEST.

Are You Equipped For Business?

In these busy days, young men and women are required to possess a business training in addition to their natural endowments, and this training is what we can give them.

The book-keeping course teaches all about the most fascinating vocation in the shortest possible time.

In shorthand and typewriting, very few equal and none excell, for we teach the genuine Benn Pitman system of shorthand and TOUCH system of typewriting.

For the benefit of those who cannot attend the day sessions, we will hold night sessions on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights.

Board in Hopkinsville can be secured at more reasonable rate than in a city, and nowhere could there be found a more desirable city in which to attend school.

Below We Give a Few Testimonials Regarding Our School:

Lockyear's Business College,
Hopkinsville, Ky.

Gentlemen:—I desire to express to you my appreciation of the benefit of the instructions I received at your college. I am now employed as stenographer in the office of the above named firm.

I heartily recommend the college and its instructors to any one desiring a thorough knowledge of shorthand and book-keeping.

Very respectfully, FLORENCE TIBBS.

Office of Hunter Wood & Son,
Hopkinsville, Ky.

To Whom It May Concern:

We take pleasure in recommending Lockyear's Business College, of this city, to all persons desirous of obtaining a business education.

The college is well equipped and is being ably managed, and we believe affords a good opportunity for any one to fit him or herself for the usual business vocations of life.

Gentlemen—I write you to let you know how well pleased I am with the business course which I took in your book-keeping department last term. I have a paying position in my home bank and have had several other positions offered me. I think your course is one of the best in the South and I would recommend it to any one who would like to take a business course. Thanking you for your past favors and wishing you continued success, I am yours truly, Tobacco vs. Poultry.

It is the contention of the tobacco industry that the poultry industry is of less value than the tobacco industry. On the opposite page during the week with all the foods and supplies bought for them, and at the end of the year foot up the two accounts and strike a balance. You will be surprised to learn that the little busy hen has paid so goodly a return, and will realize the far greater advantage it is to have that return coming in regularly, week by week, instead of one big lump sum at the end of the year, as is the case with our tobacco growing friends.

"We are glad the State Board of Agriculture managed to have the tobacco industry put prominently forward at its recent institute in East Hartford. It is the one great crop which means quick cash return, and yet the growers were persistent in slow to grasp the ideas for a bigger and better crop which Prof. Shamel, representing the national department of agriculture, has frequently presented. The farmers in Florida were not so slow. They applied the knowledge gathered by government experts with the result that they have produced a leaf that is more popular with manufacturers because of the larger number of wrappers that can be cut from it."

The special point to which we want to call attention is that tobacco "is the one great crop which always means quick cash return," and contrast it with egg production and poultry for market, which is a crop that means a continuous cash return. Tobacco, like many other farm crops, is a once-a-year crop, which is sold off to market for a lump sum, and there is no other income until the next year when another crop has been harvested; the cash all comes in at once, an it has to be divided up in portions to meet engagements accumulated in growing that particular crop, to pay running expenses till another crop year has come around—and woe be to the farmer who spends all of his tobacco money as soon as he receives it, without the thought that there is to be no more income until the next year's crop is harvested.

The poultry and egg farmer, on the contrary, has a small stream of income coming in all the year around, and that, as we apprehend it, is a much better condition than having the whole year's income coming in in a lump sum,—all at one time. With the poultry farmer there is a weekly income as well as a weekly outgo, and if he so manages his business that the outgo is within the income derived from the sale of the eggs and poultry, he is the most independent of farmers. It is true that this is almost a paraphrase of the celebrated philosophy of our genial friend, Wilkins Micawber, Esq., who puts it somewhat thusly: "A man's income is twenty pounds and his expenditure is twenty pounds and sixpence, he is a poor miserable devil, and it is hot water all the time; if his expenditure is nineteen, nineteen and sixpence, he is as independent as a Lord and perfectly care-free."

This brings us naturally to the advantage of keeping accounts. Prof. Graham, of the Connecticut Agricultural College, spoke excellently upon this point at the annual meeting and collation of the Brocton, Mass., Poultry Association, when he asked the audience if they knew how much their eggs cost them a dozen. He said far too many poultry keepers never figure out how much it costs to keep their hens, and did not know whether the eggs they sell in the spring at twenty cents a dozen cost fifteen cents or twenty-five cents. If they cost twenty-five cents and they were selling at twenty cents, there was manifestly a loss on every dozen eggs sold.

If poultry keepers would keep an itemized account of all the money expended for foods, etc., and would credit the hens with all eggs laid and poultry sold or used, they would be surprised to learn that the poultry paid so well. A well-known poultry writer and lecturer said that if poultry keepers would keep a simple debit and credit account with their poultry they would come to a better understanding of the value of eggs and poultry produced, and would better appreciate the little daily returns their hens made us for our care of them.

A very simple account will do. On a common calendar mark down each day the number of eggs received that day, and at the end of the week put down on the right hand page of a simple account book the

The Hen versus the Cow.

By a comparison of the intrinsic value of an individual hen and her cost of maintenance for a year we find that in proportion to her value and cost she far exceeds the returns given by a cow. Fifty good laying pullets are worth no more than a good grade dairy cow—considering their utility only, and eliminating from the comparison their value for exhibition or fancy breeding purposes. Fifty good utility pullets, if given good common sense management, will yield a profit for a year, over and above their feed, of seventy-five dollars—one dollar and a half per hen per year. If the same flock of hens are given scientific treatment the income may be greatly increased. I think it is safe to say that there are few cows in the State of Connecticut, which when their feed is paid for, returns a net profit of seventy-five dollars a year to her owner. In short, I am almost tempted to challenge your presiding officer, who is the President of the Dairyman's Association, to show me one utility cow in the State that is doing as much for her owner. I make this comparison not for the purpose of disparaging the dairy interests of the State, but to emphasize the possibility of the hen as a staple farm product. More especially should it be emphasized in those cases of sterilized farms where even the soil is too poor for even ordinary grazing. It is safe to say that a large percentage of Connecticut farms have one or more acres unfit for even pasture. Such land is ideal land for poultry, provided it is dry. A field of rocks growing up to sprouts and briars is an ideal situation for poultry, and can be made to return a handsome profit to the owner.

CARE ESSENTIAL TO SUCCESS.

It is not to be supposed, however, that poultry will thrive without care. The trouble with poultry in the past has been that it has been neglected. The average farmer belittles the hen and considers her beneath his dignity—of no value, and fit only for the attention of the women folks. If the average farmer would keep a flock of from one to three hundred laying hens, and give them half the care he gives his cows and hogs, he would find the balance sheet at the end of the year in favor of the hens. There is a saying that "a hen who eat anything a hog will and make a good deal better use of it." If the farmers of this State would raise less pork and more fowl, feed more clean, wholesome grain to their hens, and less brewery refuse to their cows, we would find less farm mortgages begging for takers. Connecticut Farmer.

Improving the Flock.

There are three practical ways to improve farm poultry. One is to buy a mating or two of well bred birds and use their eggs for hatching. This is an expeditious, comparatively inexpensive and satisfactory method. If it represents too much money for you, buy two or three sittings of eggs from some good reputable breeder. Mark the chickens hatched and start next year's flock with these. This method is a little slower, but often times equally successful. The third and most inexpensive method is one which every farmer can practice if he will. It has been used time and again, and when common sense is exercised it is decidedly satisfactory. Simply cull out your flock every season, saving only the choicest birds of uniform color and quality. Exchange male birds regularly with someone who is raising the same kind of poultry. The results will surprise you.—Kimball's Dairy Farmer.

Frightfully Burned.

Chas. W. Moore, a machinist, of Ford City, Pa., had his hand frightfully burned in an electrical furnace. He applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve with the usual result: "a quick and perfect cure." Greatest healer on earth for burning, scalding, eczema and piles. 25c at Hardwick's, druggist.

In short, it means using strict business principles in every sense of the word.

Summer Diarrhoea in Children.

During the hot weather of the summer months the first unnatural looseness of a child's bowels should have immediate attention, so as to check the disease before it becomes serious. All that is necessary is a few doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, followed by a dose of castor oil to cleanse the system. Rev. M. O. Stockland, pastor of the First M. E. Church, Little Falls, Minn., writes: "We have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for several years and find it a very valuable remedy, especially for summer disorders in children." Sold by L. L. Elgin and Anderson-Fowler Drug Co., (Inc.), up to date druggists at Hopkinsville.

It means sorting out the drones and giving the workers better attention.

Stomach Troubles and Constipation.

No one can reasonably hope for good digestion when the bowels are constipated. Mr. Chas. C. Baldwin, of Edwardsville, Ill., says, "I suffered from chronic constipation and stomach troubles for several years, but thanks to Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets am almost cured." Why not get a package of these tablets and get well and stay well? Price 25c. For sale by L. L. Elgin and Anderson-Fowler Drug Co., (Inc.), up to date druggists at Hopkinsville.

It means attractively marketing the eggs.

Southwest

The Land of BIG CROPS and PROSPERITY.

Are you making as much off your farm as you ought? No doubt you are making all you CAN. The trouble is the land costs too much. It takes too much money to buy a big farm, and so you are trying to make a living on a small farm, or perhaps you are renting one and paying a good share of what you raise, in rent. Wouldn't it be better to go where the price of good land is so little that you can own a big farm—where every acre of the ground is working for you and all you raise is paying you good profits?

There are thousands of acres of fertile land in the Southwest along the line of the Cotton Belt Route that can be bought for from $3 to $10 an acre. This land is increasing in value every year. See the Southwest at Small Cost. A trip to the Southwest would convince you that your best interest lay in settling there. The trip can be made at very little expense. On the first and third Tuesdays of each month you can purchase a round trip ticket to any point in the Southwest or on the Cotton Belt Route at very low rates. Stop-overs will be allowed for you to examine any locality you are interested in. Write at once for free copies of books describing this wonderful country and for full information as to rates, etc. L. C. Barry, T. P. A., Cotton Belt Route, 82 Todd Bldg., Louisville, Ky.

The State College of Kentucky, LEXINGTON, KY.

The Agricultural and Mechanical (State) College of Kentucky offers the following courses of study, viz: Agricultural, Horticultural, Chemical, Biological, Mathematical, Physical, Normal School, Classical, Mechanical Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Civil Engineering, and Mining Engineering each of which extends over four years and leads to a degree. Post graduate studies are also provided, leading to a master's degree. Each course of study is organized under a separate faculty. The general faculty number nearly fifty professors and instructors.

Many applicants receive free tuition, room rent in the dormitories, and board and if they remain ten months, traveling expenses. The laboratories and museums are large, well equipped, comprehensive and modern.

Graduates from the several courses of study readily find excellent positions and liberal remuneration. The demand is largely in excess of the ability of the College to supply. The matriculation for the last year was, including Summer school, 815. Specialists with the necessary number of assistants have charge of each department of natural science. Summer schools are provided for pedagogy, engineering, instruction in science and in arts.

The State College of Kentucky, though bearing hitherto the title of "college," is the only institution in the Commonwealth doing, in any proper sense, university work.

The completion of the College home for young women provides facilities for good board and lodging. It is equipped with all modern conveniences, including bath rooms and room for physical culture. It is heated by steam and lighted by electricity.

An opportunity is thus afforded to young women of obtaining a thorough education in classics, modern language, literature, science, mathematics, logic, metaphysics, history, and political economy.

No other institution in the State offers advantages for education of women at all comparable to those offered by the State College of Kentucky.

The Normal Department will be on a better footing than ever heretofore. Last year's largely increased attendance, with the unprecedented growth of the Summer Normal School, both indicate that an era of prosperity surpassing that of all previous years has opened for the Normal Department of the State College.

Hundred of Hopkinsville Citizens Can Tell You All About It.

Home endorsement, the public expression of Hopkinsville people, should be evidence beyond dispute for every Hopkinsville reader. Surely the expression of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in far away places. Read the following:

J. R. Craven, blacksmith of West 14th street, Hopkinsville, Ky., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills practically gave me a new back. For three or four years a kidney trouble had caused me the most constant and severe aches and pains through my back and compelled me to constantly complain in more than one way. When arising in the morning I felt sore and lame and had to make a great effort to dress myself. The trouble grew worse and a weakness of the kidneys set in which caused me a great deal of annoyance. Willing to try just anything I purchased Doan's Kidney Pills as soon as I saw them advertised locally and got a box at L. A. Johnson & Co.'s drugstore. They brought me a lasting relief of benefit. My back felt strong and new and the trouble with the kidney secretions is much relieved. I have a great deal of faith in the Doan's Kidney Pills."

"Make Hay While the Sun Shines."

There is a lesson in the work of the thrifty farmer. He knows that the bright sunshine may last but a day and he prepares for the showers which are so liable to follow. So it should be with every household. Dysentery, diarrhoea and cholera morbus may attack some member of the home without warning. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which is the best known medicine for these diseases, should always be kept at hand, as immediate treatment is necessary, and delay may prove fatal. We must not be misled by the statement of some of our friends, who say that a quarter of a pound of an ideal mutton, but if we do not give our flocks the proper care we can expect nothing more than ordinary results.

As a rule, poultry on the farm receives very little attention. They are made to shift for themselves, and it is a long return the fowls get that have much to do with the scarcity of the egg crop in market.

Care is one half the breed and the housing and food the other half.

What does this "care" mean?

Faith is a stumbling block.

Inbreeding is a careless method bound sooner or later to cripple the stock.

Discharge the careless workman! Success is according to management.

Carelessness and mistakes are twins.

The poultry business is not "automatic"—it needs attention.

Ranks says he has never heard of a case of gout coming to a careful and busy poultryman.

Sunshine, protection from winds, now and rains, and scratching exercise are stepping stones to successful poultry keeping.—Commercial Poultry Journal.

Economy in Freedom

It costs more to keep birds in confinement than when at perfect liberty. When they have the free range of grass land, small plantations, etc., they pick up a very large quantity of food in the shape of slugs, insects and green food, and require but little at the hand of their owner. Birds which are constantly roaming about the fields searching for food can do very well with a moderate allowance of corn in their dietary two or three times a week. Those which are penned up and have to be supplied with all food, require a varied diet to meet all their requirements and compensate for the want of a natural diet which they can find for themselves when they are fully at liberty. Green food chopped up fine requires to be given every day, and with no sparing hand, while some form of animal food requires to be supplied to make up for the want of slugs and insects. Altogether, fowls in confinement require closer attention than those at liberty, if the best results are to be obtained from them.—Farm Poultry.

Egg Preservation.

Now that eggs are plentiful, the question of the best method of preservation naturally occurs to those who have more than sufficient to meet their immediate requirements. The water glass method is now so widely adopted that all other methods, such as pickling in lime, packing in salt or greasing, may be put on one side. The poultry keeper of today must be up to date in every phase of his business, and in egg preservation he cannot afford to be behindhand. The preparation known as water glass (silicate of soda) is now sold in tins, and is added to water which has been boiled and allowed to cool, in the proportion of one part of the preparation to six to ten of the water. After being well stirred the mixture should be poured into an earthenware vessel, when the eggs should be placed in as laid. In this way they will retain their freshness for months.—R. G. GIBBERT, in Farm Poultry.

Hawks.

If hawks catch your chickens, watch for them and you will generally see them hovering more or less over some field looking for mice.

Drive a post (the higher the better) above the center of the field and set a common steel trap on top of the post. Tie a mouse on the pan of the trap so he will appear to be sitting or standing there, and if a hawk comes around you will be likely to get him.

While I made poultry raising a part of my business, we placed more or less chickens among farmers, and I am sure we saved the lives of thousands of fowls by catching the hawks in this way.—Poultry Tribune.

Unnecessary Expense.

Acute attacks of colic, diarrhoea and dysentery come on without warning and prompt relief must be obtained. There is no necessity of incurring the expense of a physician's service in such cases if Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is at hand. A dose of this remedy will relieve the patient before a doctor could arrive. It has never been known to fail, even in the most severe and dangerous cases and no family should be without it. MISS HATTIE DIETRICH

Will Wed An Old Sweetheart This Evening.

Miss Harriet A. Dietrich, for the last seventeen years a teacher in the city High School here, will be married this evening at Defiance, Ohio, to Mr. Guilford Seward, a prosperous business man of Akron, Ohio.

This news will be a complete surprise to Miss Dietrich's friends here. The wedding is the culmination of a romance that began 35 years ago. Miss Dietrich was in early life engaged to Mr. Seward, but her mother withheld her consent to the marriage and like a dutiful daughter she obeyed her will. Mr. Seward in time married and his wife died leaving a daughter, who is now married and living in California. He married again and is for the second time a widower. A correspondence was opened nearly a year ago and early in the present year Miss Dietrich yielded to the importunities of her old sweetheart and agreed to wed him this summer. She declined to apply for her old place in the city schools, but few if any of her friends suspected the reason.

She will be married by her old pastor, Rev. Mr. Slagle, of the Presbyterian church at Defiance, at the home of her brother, Geo. W. Dietrich. Her brother, Prof. C. H. Dietrich, of this city, will be present.

Mr. Seward is 65 years old, well preserved and in active business life. Miss Dietrich is a lady of great strength of intellect and character. For many years she has been a teacher and a leader in her church work. She is a member of the local chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution.

Miss Inez Ledford.

Miss Inez Ledford, daughter of Mrs. Lou Ledford, died at Roaring Springs Sunday, aged about 25 years. She had been ill two months with a complication of troubles. She was a popular and estimable young lady. The funeral occurred yesterday.

A very small crowd was in town Saturday. Cut sales or anything else could not tempt the busy farmer to come to town.

LOVE WILL CONQUER.

Romantic Wedding of Young Couple Saturday Night.

The wedding, in which Hopkinsville joined the bride and Sturgis the groom, took place Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock in Clarksville. The contracting parties were Mr. Albert Long and Miss Lila Roper. The young couple had been sweethearts for about two and a half or three years and for some time it had been their desire to bring the matter to the happy ending that they did Saturday night, but on account of parental objections on the bride's side the wedding was delayed from time to time, awaiting an opportunity to steal themselves away to some place where the "knot could be tied" whether or no. Saturday morning Mr. Long came up from Princeton, where he has been for a few weeks, and after spending an hour or so in the city, perfecting all arrangements for the happy event, proceeded to Clarksville on the 7:40 train. Arriving there he secured the license and awaited the arrival of his bride-to-be. None of the family suspected anything, and in the afternoon Miss Roper, after securing her clothing and stealing out the back way of her father's home with them and leaving them at a neighbor's, came down in town. Before time for the 6:15 train to Clarksville she had a young lady friend to go to the home of the neighbor with whom she had left her clothes and they were brought to her, and in a short while she was prepared to follow her lover to the place where the ceremony was to be performed. When the train arrived she boarded it and proceeded to Clarksville. When she arrived there she was met at the depot by Mr. Long, who had secured a conveyance, and they drove hurriedly to the residence of Mr. Snyder, where the ceremony was performed. Immediately after the wedding the happy young couple returned to the depot and caught the 8:50 train back to this city, arriving here at 9:40. They spent Saturday night and Sunday here and left Sunday evening at 8:20 for Sturgis, where they will reside.

Mr. Long is a baker and with his family resided in this city and was employed by W. L. Gore, the Ninth street baker. His bride is a daughter of Mr. E. A. Roper, the well-known insurance agent, and is a young lady possessing many accomplishments and rare beauty.

SKIN ECZEMA IN WORST FORM

Black Splotches All Over Face—
Produced Severe Itching—Year's Treatment by Physicians Did No
Good and Became Despondent—Affected Parts Now Clear as Ever
—Alabama Lady's

CURE BY THE CUTICURA REMEDIES

"About four years ago I was afflicted with black splotches all over my face and a few covering my body, which produced a severe itching irritation, and which caused me a great deal of annoyance and suffering to such an extent that I was forced to call in two of the leading physicians of my town. After a thorough examination of the dreadful complaint they announced it to be skin eczema in its worst form. They treated me for the same for the length of one year, but the treatment did me no good. Finally I became despondent and decided to discontinue their advice. Shortly afterwards, my husband in reading a copy of a weekly New York paper saw an advertisement of the Cuticura Remedies. He purchased the entire outfit, and after using the contents of the first bottle of Cuticura Resolvent in connection with the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, the breaking out entirely stopped. I continued the use of the Cuticura Remedies for six months, and after that every splotch was entirely gone and the affected parts were left as clear as ever. I have not felt a symptom of the eczema since, which was three years ago."

"The Cuticura Remedies not only cured me of that dreadful disease, eczema, but other complicated troubles as well; and I have been the means of others being cured of the same disease by the Cuticura Remedies, and I don't hesitate in saying that the Resolvent is the best blood-purifier the world has ever known."
